

QUIET DAY FOR THE COLONEL

Roosevelt's Omaha Programme Is Curtailed.

TRAVELLER IN NEED OF REST

Former President Somewhat Fatigued as a Result of His Lack of Sleep. Finds Time to Speak a Good Word for Senator Burkett, Who Is a Candidate for Re-Election.

Omaha, Sept. 3.—The people of Omaha gave former President Roosevelt a day of comparative rest. All that the colonel did was to attend a breakfast given by the Roosevelt reception committee, a luncheon at the Field club, a dinner at the Omaha club, and an entertainment given by the board of governors of the Ak-Sar-Ben, which is the official boomer's club of Omaha; take an automobile ride all over Omaha, make three speeches and talk with numbers of political leaders and old friends whom he met.

Several other things had been planned for his amusement, but in his behalf a telegram was sent from Kansas City saying that he was tired, and needed a day of rest, and so the programme was cut down.

The colonel found time during the day to speak a good word for Senator Burkett, who is in the midst of a spirited campaign for re-election.

The people of Omaha did not turn out in such numbers as was the case in several other cities which Colonel Roosevelt visited on his present trip. The auditorium was jammed, and the crowd in the street outside was so great that Colonel Roosevelt had to use the tactics of a football player to get through the throng to his automobile. During the remainder of the day, however, the people had little opportunity to get together and cheer, as the parade was called off to make it easier for the colonel, and when he appeared on the streets, he shot by so rapidly in his automobile that few persons recognized him.

Little Sleep for Roosevelt.

Colonel Roosevelt went to bed earlier than usual, for he has been so busy since he left New York that he has been obliged to curtail his hours of sleep. In the morning he will attend a breakfast at the Omaha club, and then leave for Sioux Falls, where he is to speak.

At the auditorium, where he made his principal speech of the day, Colonel Roosevelt commended the work of Senator Burkett. The senator has obtained the Republican nomination and Congressman Hitchcock the Democratic nomination. Under the Nebraska law, the people will vote for a senator at the fall election and the members of the legislature are obliged to elect the candidate who receives the highest number of votes.

Senator Burkett made the speech introducing Colonel Roosevelt. He described the colonel as "the man who was once the first citizen of the nation, and is now the greatest man in the world."

After praising Senators Burkett and Dolliver Colonel Roosevelt proceeded with his set speech, in which he spoke of the Panama canal and the navy. He said that the trip of the American fleet around the world increased greatly the prestige of this country, and that the work which is being done on the canal was one of the stupendous performances of all the ages. He took sharp issue with the plan which was placed before congress at the last session of neutralizing the canal zone, and in strongest terms declared that this country should fortify the canal.

AT RAILROAD RATE HEARING

Frequent Clashes Between Attorneys Occur.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 3.—Frequent clashes between attorneys for the railroads and the legal representatives of the shippers, marked the day's hearing before the examiners of the interstate commerce commission over the proposed advance of freight rates on certain commodities.

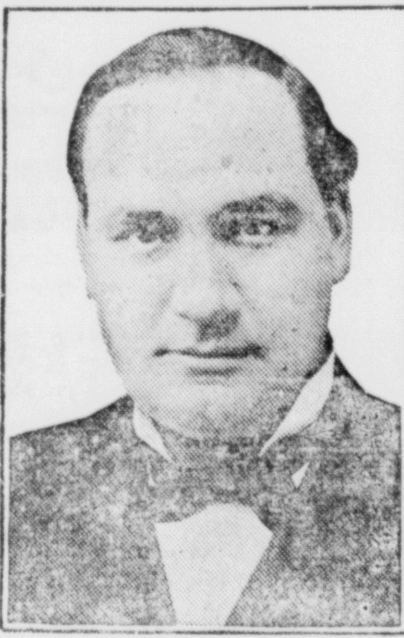

Attorney E. B. Pierce of the Rock Island railway clashed with Attorney F. B. James, attorney for a group of shippers, resending a suggestion that statistics had been omitted by the controller of the road for an ulterior purpose. The Rock Island company's presentation of its reasons for desiring to increase rates was completed and the Wabash railroad started its evidence, introducing testimony that the operating expenses had increased and that greater returns for hauling freight were needed.

At the conclusion of the testimony of Controller Noy of the Rock Island railway, Secretary Miller, vice president and general manager of the Wabash company, was called to the stand and was examined by Attorney N. S. Brown, counsel for the Wabash road.

Before offering in evidence a number of tabulated statistics, Mr. Miller testified that the revenues of the road have not enabled the management to operate and maintain the road up to the needs of the public, nor to install improvements which were desired.

SENATOR BURKETT.

Former President Roosevelt Speaks a Good Word for Him.

MAY BE ASKED TO INTERCEDE

Roosevelt Likely to Be Requested to Aid Suffragists.

St. Paul, Sept. 3.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt may be asked to intercede in behalf of the cause of woman's suffrage before he steps upon the rostrum in the Auditorium next Tuesday morning to deliver his address before the second National Conservation congress.

Both the programme for the congress and for the reception of Mr. Roosevelt have been settled in the minds of the committee that had the arrangements in charge. This was said, however, to be a contingency upon which they had not figured.

Suffragists, representing the committee from the Minnesota State Women's Suffrage association, are expected to gather at the state capitol when Roosevelt passes there on his way from Minneapolis to St. Paul. They will carry a banner in their hands, according to tentative plans, calling his attention to the fact that the suffragists desire a speaker from their number to address the congress.

If these plans are followed out no attempt will be made to see Mr. Roosevelt until after his reception to the Roosevelt club at the Saint Paul Tuesday morning. Then he will be approached by the suffragists and asked to intercede in their behalf. Everything is in readiness for the opening of the congress. Four of the executive officers, including President B. N. Baker, Chairman J. B. White, Secretary Thomas R. Shipp and W. A. Fleming Jones, are in the city and pronounced the outlook for the meeting of next week as auspicious.

MORE RAIN IS BADLY NEEDED IN MINNESOTA

Forest Fires Are Raging in the Vicinity of Bemidji.

Bemidji, Minn., Sept. 3.—A timely rain contributed considerably towards extinguishing the forest fires which have blazed fiercely in the country north of Bemidji, and in many places even have burned the ground in former swamps, destroying a considerable amount of timber and other property, but more soaking rain is needed to be of permanent benefit.

Between Funkley and Kelliher, on the Minnesota and International railway, much has been destroyed. The Northern Cedar company lost 25,000 poles and the same number of posts. The Minnesota Cedar company had one horse and twenty-five pigs cremated, and camp equipment and all of its poles and posts were destroyed. J. C. Parker, mayor of Bemidji, lost eight sets of valuable logging sleds. A water tank, rut cutter, snow plows and five sets of the logging sleds belonging to the Northern Cedar company also were burned at Orth, on the Minnesota and International. Seven hundred poles and 700 ties were burned, and warped the rails so that the train was delayed several hours, while train and railway crews fought the fires desperately.

Very valuable white pine at Black Duck, owned by the Weyerhaeuser lumber syndicate, was saved only by the hardest kind of work. Mayor Parker of Bemidji, who has visited the territory where the fires burned, says the pathway of the flames between Funkley and Kelliher is marked by widespread destruction. There have been very heavy losses throughout the woods.

Retribution. Young Father in the future—Great snakes! Can't you do something to quiet that baby? Its eternal squalling drives me frantic. Young Mother (calmly to servant)—Marie, bring in my husband's mother's photograph and put in the cylinder "At Ten Months." I want him to hear how his voice sounded when he was young.

Squaring Himself. Mrs. Henpecke—What do you mean, sir, by telling Mrs. Torker's husband you never ask my advice about anything? Henpecke—Well, Maria, I don't. You don't want to be asked.

Showing the Way. Friend (to guide)—Why does your wife always go round with the parties that you take over the castle? Guide—She always gives me a tip at the end so as to induce the others to follow suit.—London Answers.

Audible Sleep. "Is Mrs. Schnorer in?" asked the caller. "Yes, ma'am," answered the maid of all work in the boarding house. "She's at present in her room."

"Are you sure?" "Yes, ma'am. I just overheard her taking a nap."

WANTS WITNESS HELD TO THE JURY

Attorney Asserts That Polley Participated in Frauds.

CHARGE IS A CRIMINAL ONE

Judge Bruggemeyer Orders Lawyer for Defendants in Hearing of Conspiracy Charges Against Former Railroad Officials to Prepare a Petition Containing His Demand for Presentation to the Court.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—The hearing of conspiracy charges against former Illinois Central railroad officials in the municipal court resulted in a demand made by the defense that C. H. Polley, former chief clerk of the Ostermann Manufacturing company, be held to the grand jury as a self-confessed participant in the big Illinois Central car repair frauds. Polley, who was brought to Chicago from his home in California by the prosecution, has given considerable evidence against Frank B. Harriman, John M. Taylor and Charles B. Ewing, the three defendants in the conspiracy hearing.

When the cross-examination of Polley, which occupied all of the day's session of court, had been concluded, Attorney Hoover, for the defense, asked to address Judge Bruggemeyer. Attorney Hoover first turned to Polley, asking if Polley intended to return to California.

"Yes, I do," said Polley. "Then," continued Attorney Hoover, "I demand that this witness be held to the grand jury as a self-confessed participant in the frauds that have been perpetrated against the Illinois Central Railroad company."

Objects to the Word Smirk.

"This man," continued Attorney Hoover, "comes into this court with a smile and a smirk—" "I object to the word 'smirk,'" interrupted Attorney Fisher of counsel for the prosecution.

"—with a smile and a smirk," continued Mr. Hoover, "and calmly relates how he had padded bills and defrauded the railroad company of thousands of dollars. He gives facts and figures to support his confession, and he admits that he has received these large sums of money. As an officer of this court I demand that he be bound over to the grand jury for examination on a criminal charge."

Judge Bruggemeyer ordered Attorney Hoover to prepare a petition containing his demand for presentation to the court.

Polley merely reiterated his testimony of the previous day. In addition to the demand by Attorney Hoover, the only other incident of an otherwise listless proceeding was the issuance of a subpoena for W. L. Park, vice president of the Illinois Central road. Park will probably be placed on the witness stand early next week. When the day's session concluded, Judge Bruggemeyer announced that court would adjourn until next Wednesday afternoon, when the hearing will be resumed.

DESPERATE FIGHT IN CAVE

Rancher Kills Three Gray Wolves in Their Den.

Deadwood, S. D., Sept. 3.—To crawl into a wolf den with a rifle and fight a life and death battle with gray wolves was the experience of George Porch, a rancher.

Small ranchers who have supplanted the big cattlemen have suffered from the depredations of gray wolves, and Porch and four of his neighbors started to run down and kill some of the animals. The five came upon the trail of four full grown wolves, which they followed for many miles, succeeding in killing one of them on the open prairie. The other three animals headed for their den and took refuge in it, doubtless thinking they were safe from further pursuit. Porch found that the tunnel, through which the wolves made their way to their den, ran along about 100 feet nearly parallel with the ground. With a hunting knife in one hand and his rifle in the other he crawled the whole distance, ready for instant action when he came upon the wolves.

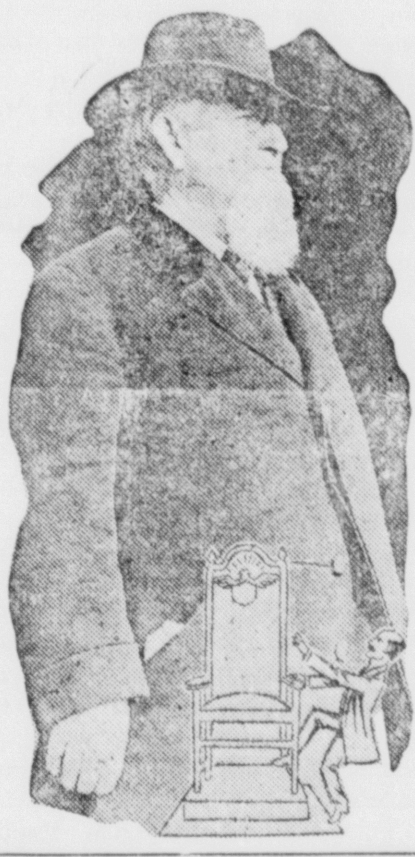

After digging into the bluff for a distance which seemed to be a half mile or more, Porch saw ahead of him in the darkness six sparkling bright eyes, all centered upon him. But there was no stopping short of securing the three wolf pelts which he had set out to capture. Some more running out of the hole and he was near enough to fire a shot from his rifle.

Porch's lantern was extinguished by the concussion when the heavy rifle was fired. Porch relighted it, and saw the body of one dead wolf. As he reached forward to drag it out, one of the live ones attacked him. The sharp teeth of the animal closed upon his coat sleeve, tearing it to shreds and grazing his arm. A rough and tumble fight between Porch, who is an old cowboy, and the wolf then followed. After a fierce battle he overpowered the wolf and then ended its life by firing a bullet into it with his rifle. The remaining wolf then was killed by Porch.

SENATOR T. R. CARTER.

Says That Gifford Pinchot Is Seeking the Presidency.

PINCHOT REMAINS SILENT

Will Not at Present Reply to Carter's Statement.

Osawatimie, Kan., Sept. 3.—When shown the declaration made by Senator Thomas R. Carter to the effect that he was seeking the presidency, Gifford Pinchot said he would not say anything just now.

Mr. Carter's statement was made in reply to a recent interview with Pinchot and is in part as follows:

"Gifford Pinchot has rushed into print to shift responsibility for the distressing forest fires that have devastated so much of the Western country. He says that Heyburn, Mondell and Carter are responsible because they opposed appropriations for forest protection."

"It will be perceived that about 90 per cent of all the money appropriated was used for general expenses, including the payment for lectures, the payment of editorial writers and reporters, the maintenance of a bureau of publicity and the general exploitation of Mr. Pinchot and his absurd campaign for the presidency of the United States."

PRESIDENT TAFT APPOINTS HOLMES

Makes Pinchot's Friend Head of New Bureau.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 3.—President Taft announced the appointment of Joseph Austin Holmes of the geological survey as director of the new bureau of mines at Washington. Dr. Holmes has been selected for the place some time ago, but his appointment was held up, it is understood here, on the ground that Secretary Ballinger, under whose department the new bureau is placed, was opposed to him. Mr. Holmes is the intimate personal friend of Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield and F. H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, all three of whom sharply criticized Mr. Ballinger on the witness stand at the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry.

It was reported that Secretary Ballinger felt Dr. Holmes might have a hand in what he termed the "conspiracy" against him. Friends of Dr. Holmes, while admitting the latter's close association and friendship with Messrs. Pinchot, Garfield and Newell, declared nevertheless that he had taken no active part in the campaign against Mr. Ballinger.

The endorsement of Dr. Holmes for the place was almost unanimous. It came from the mine operators and the miners' organizations alike. The purpose of the new bureau is to investigate and report upon safety appliances to prevent the awful waste of life annually.

MINNEAPOLIS MAN KILLED

H. G. Stockstad Slain by Man Frenzied by Liquor.

Minneapolis, Sept. 3.—Taking up the fight of his brother in a drunken frenzy, John Hoglund shot and instantly killed Hans G. Stockstad in the latter's saloon here. Hoglund is in jail, charged with murder. His brother, Herman Hoglund, with whom he lived, is also held by the police, but a charge of drunkenness only will likely be preferred against him. Stockstad was shot through the head, the muzzle of a shotgun having been held within a few inches of his head. The shot tore a horrible hole, almost severing that member, and passing through and demolishing a glass partition behind him.

Reed Monument Unveiled.

Portland, Me., Sept. 3.—The statue erected in honor of Thomas B. Reed in this city was unveiled with appropriate ceremonies. Representative Samuel McCall of Massachusetts made the principal address. The monument cost $25,000 and was given to the city by a committee that had charge of collecting the funds.

STRIKE IN NEW YORK IS ENDED

ANXIOUSLY AWAIT ACTION

North Dakota Politicians Wonder What Committee Will Do.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 3.—The politicians of the state are anxiously awaiting the action of the state Republican central committee when it meets at Bismarck next Thursday. The candidates selected a committee, composed of the senatorial and congressional nominees to prepare a platform for consideration.

As these are the men most vitally interested it might be surmised that anything that would prove satisfactory to this quartet would be all right, as one senator and one congressman belong to each Republican faction.

But there is no guarantee, even if these four should agree, than the state central committee will adopt what they recommend.

The state primary law is peculiar in that it provides for the nomination of candidates from constables to United States senators and three months after their nomination a meeting is called to adopt a platform. When they meet it would seem more logical that the candidates themselves should determine the platform, but the primary law provides the state platform shall be considered and adopted by the state Republican central committee. This committee is selected by legislative districts two months after the statewide primaries.

There is some speculation as to just what would happen if the state central committee were to be controlled by a majority of the radicals of either faction, and the majority opposed to the factional feeling of the candidates. Should the candidates be stalwarts and the committee progressive, or vice versa, it might be unpleasant for the candidates.

Should a candidate not like the platform the central committee prepared for him, and bolt it, a peculiar situation would arise, as he could not be robbed of his nomination, and would at the same time not be in accord with the principles of his party as enunciated by the central committee.

There are so many peculiar features in the primary law that it will be necessary to amend the measure at the next session.

Great Industrial Struggle Is at Last Terminated.

WILL ALL RETURN TO WORK

Seventy Thousand Garment Workers Who Have Been Idle for Nine Weeks Will Again Resume Their Labor—Ten Thousand of Them and Those Dependent Upon Them Were on the Point of Eviction.

New York, Sept. 3.—The cloakmakers' strike, one of the greatest industrial disturbances in the history of American labor, has been settled. Seventy thousand garment workers who have been idle for nine weeks will shortly return to work. Ten thousand of them and those dependent on them, 50,000 in all, were on the point of eviction. Hundreds have already been forced to the streets.

The industrial loss to employers and employees has run high into the millions. In loss of wages alone the total is more than $10,000,000, while the loss to manufacturers, jobbers and retailers the country over has been computed at ten times that amount.

In spite of the stupendous readjustment involved, the strike has been, in the main, notable for its peacefulness. There were numerous cases of petty disorder, and a petition of the manufacturers brought forth from Justice Goff of the state supreme court an injunction in which he ruled that any strike called to demand the closed shop was in restraint of trade.

Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the manufacturers' association, describes the agreement signed by him and representatives of the strikers in this sentence:

Unions Win a Victory.

"No principle has been surrendered by the manufacturers, yet the union may truly assert it has won a great victory for its people. The manufacturers believe in the union and in the principle that all who desire its benefits should share in its burdens."

One essential to this victory, and one important not only to the strikers but to the nation at large which wears their output, is the abolition of all contract work at home. Hereafter garments made in New York will be manufactured under sanitary conditions.

There will be no more sweat shops. The rock on which all previous efforts at mutual conciliation have split has been the closed shop. That rock has now been avoided by the adoption of the "preferential union shop" idea, for which Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, formerly counsel for Glavis, in the Pinchot and Ballinger hearing, is given full credit.

The settlement of the strike averts a crisis on the crowded East Side. With thousands out of work and unable to pay rent, the courts were literally swamped with eviction proceedings and there arose the protest of thousands of mothers and children being rendered shelterless. Many were evicted Thursday, but it is believed that landlords, apprised of the adjustment, will now grant several days of grace.

BARNES SCORES ROOSEVELT

Declares His Political Ascendancy Is Dangerous.

New York, Sept. 3.—William Barnes, Jr., Republican state committeeman and leader of Albany, issued a statement in which he declares "hysteria has run riot throughout this country," and that the question to be decided at the coming Republican state convention at Saratoga is "whether the Republican party will fight the disease or succumb in the interests of politicians seeking office or temporary acclaim."

The character of the recent addresses of Theodore Roosevelt in the West, Mr. Barnes says, "has startled all thoughtful men and impressed them with the frightful danger which lies in his political ascendancy."

When he talked with Colonel Roosevelt after the meeting which selected Vice President Sherman as temporary chairman of the convention over the colonel and learned his attitude toward "public matters," Mr. Barnes says he told the former president that he never could have voted for him.

Jeffries' Nephew Killed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—The accidental killing of Louis Jeffries, a nephew of James J. Jeffries, employed as a nonunion iron worker on the Alexandria hotel annex, precipitated a riot between striking iron workers and the nonunion men. A dozen fights started and many arrests were made. Jeffries was killed by the falling of a derrick.

John A. Fraser Died at His Home Yesterday Afternoon of an Attack of Paralysis

John Fraser, Sr., aged 72 years, an old respected resident of this city, died at his home 218 North Ninth street at five o'clock yesterday afternoon from an attack of paralysis. He had been sick since last November.

The deceased was born in April, 1838, at Glengarry, Ontario, Can., and spent his early life in the lumber business. About thirty years ago he settled at Grand Forks, N. D., and then removed to Brainerd about twenty years ago, where he was employed many years for the Northern Pacific railway in its lumber department at the shops.

He was married about 40 years ago to Miss Anna McDonald at Glengarry. He leaves surviving his widow and four children, John A. Fraser, of Minneapolis; Mrs. John Corkery, of Staples; James Fraser, of Minneapolis, and Miss Ellen Fraser, of Brainerd. The funeral will be held from St. Francis Catholic church on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. Father O'Mahoney officiating. The deceased was a most devoted and ardent member of the Catholic faith and in his declining years found much comfort and happiness in his church. The sympathy of their many friends is extended the family in their sad bereavement.

BRAINERD IS IN INDIAN COUNTRY

The Treaty of 1855 Includes the County of Crow Wing With Reference to Sale of Liquor

ALOON MEN ARE WARNED

Continued Sale by Bottle Will Soon or Later Put the City in the Dry Column

The closing of many saloons in northern Minnesota by the government on account of the sale to Indians by saloon men, bootleggers and blind pigs has caused no little comment during the past few months, not only in the territory affected, but in various parts of the country, because of the unusual method of doing away with the traffic. The government gave the men engaged in the sale of liquor in the territory affected timely notice that unless the practice was stopped and the sale to the wards of the government ceased that drastic measures would be employed and the places of business would be closed. This was considered a bluff on the part of those who are reaping a harvest from the Indian trade in the country near the Indian reservations and the traffic continued, not by all of the liquor dealers but by those who thought that the government had no business to attempt to regulate their sales as long as they had a license to dispose of the goods. Following on the heels of this came complaints to the government agents that the order was being disregarded in many localities, and while there were those who deserved to be allowed to continue the business on account of their strict observance of the orders issued, there were others who deserved to be put out of the business if order was to be maintained and the law observed. Special agents were then put to work and in nearly all the towns within 40 or 50 miles of the White Earth and Leech Lake Indian agencies evidence was obtained against saloon men for selling to red men, and the report of the agents was followed by an order closing these places and where the proprietors refused to close at a given time to forcibly put them out of business and to destroy the liquors found in their business places. The order was carried out to the letter, despite the fact that the men who had been notified and asked to do certain things laughed at the idea that any such thing could happen. Things ran along a while with one or two saloons in each of the northern towns, where before the government took a hand in closing them there were from six to fifteen, and complaints again began to come in, the saloon men were again warned but those who thought they could profit by the sale of bottled goods where the liquor was carried off got busy and the result was that the towns affected by the Indian treaty were closed entirely to the sale of liquor, the sweeping order to take effect Oct. 15th, and the southern line of the dry order is marked by the Mississippi river on the south, just across the river from Brainerd.

This much mooted dry order has probably been as much discussed in this city as in any other city in the northern part of the state, and it has been claimed that the city was outside the territory comprised in the Indian treaty and the threats of those in authority as to the action which would be taken could not be put into effect. In order to settle the matter and to give it publicity that those who would be affected might know exactly what their rights were in the matter, Werner Hemstead wrote the "special agent, known as "Pussyfoot" Johnson, as to the exact situation and the following is a copy of the reply received:

Secretary Brainerd Brewing Co.
My Dear Sir: I have to acknowledge receipt of your letter of August 13th. The situation is exactly this: On account of our limited resources I do not wish to extend unnecessarily the theater of our special activities in Minnesota under the treaties. We have been compelled to take in all of Crow Wing county north of the Mississippi river. We have been compelled to do this because of the pernicious activity of saloon keepers in selling indirectly to Indians. This has been done mostly by supplying bootleggers with bottles and in this way it goes to the Indians. If the saloon keepers had not only quit selling liquor to Indians, but had quit selling liquor in bottles, all this trouble would have been avoided. As the matter stands now, it is clearly up to the saloon keepers of Brainerd to say whether we shall shut up the saloons of that city. If they continue selling liquor, especially whiskey, by the bottle, sooner or later they will compel us to close that territory. The fate of the saloons at Brainerd and other points within the treaty cession is still within their own hands.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM E. JOHNSON,
Chief Special Agent."

It will readily be seen from the above that the special agents of the United States Indian service have the Brainerd situation under consideration and that they have put the matter up to saloon men of the city as to whether they shall continue in business for any great length of time. The sale of liquor in bottles seems to be especially obnoxious to the Indian department as it opens an avenue to get the same to the Indians. Mr. Johnson, who is the agent under the direction of whom all the closing was done, makes a particularly significant statement in his letter above when he says "if they (the saloon keepers of Brainerd) continue selling liquor, especially whiskey, by the bottle, sooner or later they will compel us to close that territory."

The acting commissioner of Indian affairs under date of August 26 writes Congressman Lindbergh in response to a request for a copy of the Indian treaty as follows, which will show conclusively that Brainerd is included in the territory:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of August 17, requesting a copy of the Indian treaty which is now being enforced in your district against the sale of intoxicants. A territory has been specified in Minnesota, wherein no liquor can be sold after October 15th, 1910. Three treaties apply to this territory, viz: the treaty of July 23, 1851 (10 Stat. L. 949); the treaty of February 22, 1855 (10 Stat. L. 1165), and the treaty of October 2, 1863, (12 Stat. L. 667). There appears to be only two treaties containing provisions with reference to the sale of liquor which apply to your territory, viz: the treaties of July 23, 1851, and Feb. 22, 1855. The counties of Cass, Crow Wing, Wadena and Hubbard are partially or wholly within the territory ceded by the treaty of 1855."

The treaty between the United States and the Mississippi Chippewa Indians contains the following which fixes the boundary lines of the territory in question:

"Article 1. The Mississippi, Pillager and Lake Winnibigoshish bands of Chippewa Indians hereby cede, sell and convey to the United States all their right, title, and interest in, and to, the lands now owned and claimed by them, in the Territory of Minnesota, and included within the following boundaries, viz: Beginning at a point where the east branch of Snake river crosses the southern boundary line of the Chippewa country, east of the Mississippi river, as established by the treaty of July twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven, running thence, up the said branch, to its source; thence in a straight line, straight line, to the mouth of East Savannah river; thence, up the St. Louis river, to the mouth of East Swan river, thence, up said river, to its source; thence in a straight line, to the most westwardly bend of Vermillion river; thence, northwesterly, in a straight line, to the first and most considerable bend in the Big Fork river; thence, down said river, to its mouth; thence, down Rainy Lake river, up that river, to its source; thence, in a straight line, to the northern extremity of Turtle lake; thence in a straight line, to the mouth of Wild Rice river; thence up Red river of the North, to the mouth of Buffalo river; thence, in a straight line, to the southwestern extremity of Otter Tail lake; thence, through said lake, to the source of Leaf river; thence down said river, to its junction with Crow Wing river; thence down Crow Wing river, to its junction with the Mississippi river; thence, to the commencement on said river of the southern boundary line of the Chippewa country, as established by the treaty of July twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-seven; and thence along said line, to the place of beginning. And the said Indians do further fully and entirely relinquish and convey to the United States, any and all right, title, and interest, of whatsoever nature the same may be, which they may now have in, and to any other lands in the Territory of Minnesota or elsewhere."

Article 7 of the treaty contains the clause regarding the traffic in liquor and which has caused the controversy in question:

"Article VII. The laws which have been or may be enacted by Congress, regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes, to continue and be in force within, and upon, the several reservations provided for herein; and those portions of said laws, which prohibit the introduction, manufacture, use of, and traffic in, ardent spirits, wines or other liquors, in the Indian country, shall continue and be in force, within the entire boundaries of the country herein ceded to the United States, until otherwise provided by Congress."

K. C. HERBERT, AVIATOR

Son of C. D. Herbert Will Carry Passengers 1,500 Feet in Air at Spokane Fair

A huge captive balloon will be one of the midway attractions at the Spokane Interstate fair October 3-9, the management signing a contract recently with K. C. Herbert of Boston for the attraction. Mr. Herbert is a son of C. D. Herbert of Brainerd, is about 26 years of age and visited this city in April, 1909. The balloon will ascend to a height of 1,500 feet, attached to the earth with a steel cable, giving a panoramic view of territory for 40 miles.

The securing of the captive balloon makes two "in the air" attractions for the fair, the other being air ship flights by J. C. Mars, who was announced as the aviator who would navigate the aeroplane for the Glenn H. Curtis company.

M. D. Stoner Shows Where Company Can and Will Do as it Agrees

WILL FURNISH CURRENT AT 2 1/4c

Shows How Long Wire Single Electrical Service Will Raise Insurance Rates

Brainerd, Minn., Sept. 3, 1910.

Upon my return to Brainerd I noticed in the Dispatch that in their first publication of my new proposition they made a typographical error in stating that if the city would cut out the pumping feature of my proposition that I would furnish current per flat price of 2 1/2 cents, when they should have said 2 1/4 cents. Although they made proper corrections in next issue I learned that some of the citizens did not notice the correction hence this explanation.

I was also surprised to learn that the statements were made to the councilmen to the effect that I was not actually purchasing any land for flowage or actually owned the site for the dam, but was taking options and in the event of closing a deal with the city would make purchases provided I could finance the proposition which was doubtful. In reply to such talk, which is clearly malicious, I wish to say to the city council or any citizens who may be interested, that I have in every instance taken warranty deeds for flowage and dam site and that by going to the slight trouble of calling at the First National bank of Brainerd they can see my cancelled checks to the amount of over $25,000 which I have paid out for deeds and surveys and by calling on Mr. Mantor of the firm of Alderman, Mantor & Ebner they can see the most of the deeds which are still in their files. I will also state that there are over $15,000 worth of flowage now being investigated by my attorney and as soon as the titles are made perfect the deeds will be taken up. I also stated to the council and will here state that if the city will contract with me for current I will put up immediately a cash bond in any reasonable sum up to $25,000, as a guarantee of good faith that I will proceed at once to put in the steam plant as previously mentioned, the cash bond to be held until I could get a surety company bond which shall be approved by the council in such sum as they may think right and proper.

Any one who wishes to be fair in this matter can easily ascertain from the First National bank whether or not I can carry out my statements. They are also at liberty to state from what source my money comes and I will freely take oath that absolutely none has come from any citizen of Brainerd or that any citizen in Brainerd or Minnesota except myself has one cent's worth of interest in the proposition or has been promised any. It is also being circulated that there is only 300 or 400 horse power in Crow Wing river and not enough to light the town. What if there isn't. That, together with a 750 H. P. steam plant will take care of Brainerd for many years to come, but no engineer made such a statement and there is not a consulting engineer or the engineers of the government office at St. Paul would make such a ridiculous statement on a stream having an acknowledged drainage area of 3500 square miles. The lowest report received on the Crow Wing power was 1350 H. P. by Stone and Webster, one of the best known firms of engineers in the United States and their data was based on the rain fall of 1864, but this year it has been still less so that on the same basis upon which they calculated 1350 H. P. there was by actual measurement on August 22, 1910, 760 H. P. in the natural flow of the stream after allowing for all losses in developing same. While this is ample for Brainerd as it means continuous H. P. and as our first installation of machinery at the dam will be not less than 1500 H. P. we can therefore draw on our large reservoir extending over five square miles for a surplus of water during the peak load as all other companies do.

But as this is a phenomenal year a water power should not be condemned any more than a fine farm should be on account of the fact that not even the seed was harvested this year. I also wish to call the citizens attention to a letter from Mr. McLeran which is printed below and which clearly bears out my statements that without an auxiliary steam plant of some sort to provide against accidents, the city could not use current for pumping without a raise in insurance rates all over town, or at least it would be higher than if a steam plant were maintained in the city as a second source of supply. The use of electrical pumping especially where the station is located at some distance from the railroad, would be a great saving to the city provided the source of current is approved by the board of underwriters but if the current is brought in over a 30 mile line with no auxiliary steam plant in this city it could not use such current for pumping without the city maintaining its own steam plant, which would be an unnecessarily big expense.

In case the council should contemplate the acceptance of the Little Falls proposition wherein the city would be obliged to build the pole line I wish to call their attention to the fact that even if the county commissioners should grant them the right to build their high tension line along the highways which is not at all probable they would no doubt sooner or later be obliged to secure a right of way of their own for the entire distance as there will surely be laws enacted as in eastern states regulating such matters and compelling all companies or municipalities to own their own right of way.

All these things should be carefully considered before any action is taken.

M. D. STONER.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 18, 1910.
Messrs. Keene, McFadden & Chadbourne, Brainerd, Minn.

Gentlemen:

Replying to your favor of the 16th inst. Any system depending upon a single electrical supply for operating pump without a reservoir of ample capacity with sufficient elevation to give practical fire pressure, would be very objectionable. If you decide to use electrical power, it would be much better to have a properly equipped steam plant held ready for instant use in addition to the electrically driven pump.

The insurance estimates would be lower if there were two sources of power.

I believe a committee from your city could obtain some valuable information upon this matter by visiting Duluth and investigating the water supply here.

Yours truly yours,

J. B. McLERAN,
Inspector.

Anti-Tuberculosis Exhibition Under Auspices of Minn. State Board of Health

COMING IN NEAR FUTURE

Consists of Photographs, Charts, Models, Window Tents, Model Rooms, Etc.

The Anti-Tuberculosis exhibition which is coming here in the near future under the auspices of the Minnesota State Board of Health, is the plan being adopted all over the country for the purpose of enlightening the general public as to how to eradicate tuberculosis; to present the best known means of prevention and cure in a manner which can be easily understood by all.

Much valuable information may be gained from looking over the exhibition carefully. The exhibit consists of numerous photographs, statistical charts, mottoes, etc., which are displayed on the walls; also window tents, model rooms, etc. No specimens of diseased organs are shown—this is an anti-tuberculosis exhibition.

In connection with the regular program of local and outside speakers, stereopticon lectures will be given, illustrated with several hundred slides, pointing out in an interesting and instructive manner much valuable information.

The opening meeting is planned especially for the students from the schools; the second afternoon's meeting will be in charge of the ladies. Each program will be different from the preceding ones so everyone should plan to attend as many as possible. It is hoped that the people of this place will support the movement. Being given by the State Board of Health all the meetings are free and the enterprise unselfish in every respect.

Mrs. A. Hamilton, N. Tenth and Ivy Sts., Brainerd, Minn., says: "For almost a year I felt worn out and miserable. I had no ambition and when I arose from a chair I was barely able to move. My back was weak and I often had dizzy spells. While living in Canada, I heard Doan's Kidney Pills recommended very highly and when I read an article in the Brainerd papers about them, I went to a local drug store and procured a box. They strengthened my kidneys and acted as a tonic to my entire system. I now feel better rest well at night and can do my work without difficulty. COCOS MONARCH PROVING KINGDOM

Clunies-Ross Files Royal Father's Will in London.

NO COURTS IN HIS DOMAIN.

Present Head of Indian Ocean Cocosnut Isles Is Fourth of Reigning Family and Graduate of English University—Mixture of Scotch and Malay Blood, Plebeian and Royal, in Veins.

John Sidney Clunies-Ross, now in London, is a figure as strangely romantic as was ever pictured by writers of the most lurid fiction. Just now he is a well educated and wealthy gentleman, descended on one side from an aristocratic Scotch family and on the other from royal Malay blood, but at home, in the Cocos islands, he is monarch of all her surveys, and he surveys a good deal.

Clunies-Ross, whose father died a month or two ago, is the fourth of his name to rule over the little group of coral islands in the Indian ocean. The story of his family is that of a man who would be king who lived nearly 100 years ago.

The original Clunies-Ross bore the same name as his great-grandson. He was born in the Suetland islands, whither his family had fled, proscribed, after the failure of the Jacobite uprising in the early eighteenth century. But he obeyed the call of the sea, and in the course of his roving he fell in with one Alexander Hare, a dissolute, imaginative, not overhonest man, who had come under the spell of the east to the extent of adopting most of its vices. He was in disgrace with his employers and found a change of residence imperative.

Pick Out a Kingdom.

In Clunies-Ross he met a man as daring as himself, though honorable and straight living. He proposed that the pair of them should seek out an uninhabited group of islands and live thereon like oriental potentates.

The young Scotchman liked the idea, and the two proceeded to the Cocos islands, 500 miles from other land, and established themselves, together with about 100 others. Hare took a harem along with him and prepared to spend his days in riotous living. Clunies-Ross took his lawful family, was satisfied with the primitive life and looked about for a chance to trade.

He tried spices and coffee and failed. Then he pitched on coconuts as his best investment and planted great groves of the trees. While they were growing he traded as best he could, and a good many Malays, with a few whites, were attracted to the island. Hare tried to enslave the darker portion of the population, with such ill success that he was forced to leave the island. He went to Singapore, where he died not long afterward, deserted by his harem and "courtiers."

Fortune in Cocoanuts.

The cocoanuts grew, and Clunies-Ross began to make money out of the oil and various other products of the trees. Trade prospered in other directions also, and the island attracted more inhabitants. The rule of Ross was recognized and welcomed. He was just and kind and withal canny in matters of trading.

Then John, having ruled twenty-seven years, died in 1854. He was succeeded by John George, his son. In his time the territory was proclaimed under British protection, but the change was merely nominal. Nobody interfered with the absolute rule of John George. He further strengthened his position by marrying a Malay woman of royal blood and fine character. Together they developed the islands and saw justice done.

The chief's six sons were all educated in Scotland, for the cocoanuts were bringing in a tidy sum. George was the eldest son, and he studied engineering that his islands might have the benefit of his skill. When he succeeded his father he devoted himself not only to carrying on trade, but to perfecting the native arts. He in turn married a native woman, who proved as worthy a helpmate as the wife of John George.

All Educated in England.

Like his forbears, George Clunies-Ross had many sons, all educated in England. He was in England with them when he died, in June of this year. His son, John Sidney, succeeds to the kingship, or whatever it may be called, and the property. There has been trouble in England over probating the will, because there is no legal machinery for doing such things in the Cocos islands, but this little difficulty does not affect the status of John Sidney. The islanders, who number about 700, are well satisfied with the justice of the Clunies-Ross dynasty and have no desire to invite a change of government.

There are neither soldiers nor police in the Cocos islands. The natives live in peace with one another and with the great spirit they believe in. They have plenty of this world's goods—plenty, that is, for simple, healthy wants.

Sympathetic Admiration.

Dinks—So you enjoyed the circus? Winks—Yes; I was particularly interested in the juggler. I'll bet that man could get any number of bundles from a street car to the train without dropping one of them.—St. Louis Times.

His Objection.

Scottish Bachelor—Will ye have some tea? Visitor—Oh, please don't trouble! Bachelor—It's no the trouble; it's just the expense.—Punch.

It Would.

Ella—They say sugar alone will sustain life for some time. Stella—Life would be sweet, wouldn't it?—Exchange.

FOR STATE SENATOR

To the Voters of Crow Wing and Morrison counties:—

I am a candidate for the republican nomination for state senator for the 48th district at the primary election to be held Sept. 20th, 1910.

My service in the senate during the past four years has given me valuable experience, wider acquaintances with public men, more extensive general information of the legislative needs of the state at large and special knowledge of what will be required by central and northern Minnesota, particularly this legislative district.

Because of these things I believe it is fair to say that I am better qualified and equipped to serve for another term than I was at the beginning of the present term.

I am heartily in accord with the principles and movement emphasized by the action of the Northern Minnesota Development Association, and as a matter of course have no hesitation in pledging myself to the most vigorous support of all measures designed to embody in law the resolutions adopted by the Bemidji conference and endorsed by the Crookston convention.

My work in the last session against the tonnage tax bill should give sufficient assurance that I will unflinchingly oppose every proposed bill or measure of that character.

Fully appreciating the many kindnesses and courtesies extended to me by the voters of this district in the past, and being frank to say that I desire re-election for another term, assuring you that if nominated and elected I will continue to give the best that is in me for the people of this district and of the state, I venture to hope that your confidence in me will be expressed by your vote the 20th of September.

Respectfully yours,

S. F. ALDERMAN.

FOR CORONER

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the republican nomination for coroner at the primary election on Tuesday, Sept. 20th, and respectfully solicit your support.
